Ethics Essay

My team is really lagging behind in the project for the RED Company. I need to first talk to my teammates to let them know that it is important we get back on schedule, seeing as I assured Bob that failure is not an option. It is extremely important that I have a discussion with my team in order to get things back in order and make sure everything runs smoothly from here on out. I will have a formal conversation with my team as colleagues, not a casual conversation as friends.

First, I will talk to Troy. I will let him know that he needs to stay on track, and keep his focus on one task only. I will let him know that multitasking doesn't accomplish anything, and if he focuses on the project we can get it done a lot faster. Next I will talk to Andy and Shanetta. I will ask them to put their own personal issues aside for a few days in order to finish up the project. By putting aside their personal issues, they can focus on the task at hand and get everything done more efficiently.

Finally, if we still aren't seeing any progress in the next 1 to 2 days, I will talk to Bob and explain the issues that my team are dealing with. If he knows what is actually going on, he may be able to advise our team and help us get a move on our project. We do not want to let the RED Company down.
